LANDING STATION FOR AIRSHIPS TO

Unique Structure for Heart of City.

NEW YORK, April 27.-Longacre Equare may have a $2,000,000 landing station for airship liners.

Henry Erkins, whose eccentric architecture to White Light resorts created such places as Murray's and the Cafe de l'Opera, has planned a structure to fulfill the uses to which Madison Square Garden has been put. Financial arrangements are being conducted by John Ohmeis and Oscar Schmidt, who represent Milwaukee brewing interests.

The site is that of the old Brewster wagon factory, Broadway and Fortyseventh street, at the head of the square. It is 155.7 by 277.2 feet.

Erkins plans to have in the basemen Erkins plans to have in the basement a restaurant, with a far greater seating capacity than any other in town. Through the center of the building will run a grand court, with balconies at seven floors above the ground floor, which will be for stores. The balcony floors will be for showrooms. Three floors above them will contain great halls for exhibitions.

On the roof will be an immense gar-

On the roof will be an immense gar-den, with a lake for the display of mo-tor-boats, and with starting and landing places for airships. One elevator will be big enough to carry to the roof an automobile, an aeroplane, a fifty-foot motor-boat or 400

Suffers Relapse When Her Mother Drops Dead

Mrs. Harriet D. Yates, the wife of Major Arthur W. Yates, U. S. A., is today in a serious condition from the shock she sustained when her mother, Mrs. Georgia M. Robinson, of 1809 Nineteenth street, fell dead at her bedside night before last.

Mrs. Robinson was attending her daughter, who has been ill for some time. She was giving Mrs. Yates medicine when she fell, a victim of apoplexy. Mrs. Yates suffered a relapse last night, and Dr. Ira Dennison, who is attending her, says that her condition, while not critical, is serious.

COLFORD-MORGAN

New York Promoters Plan Girl Once Rebuked King of Chamber of Commerce Plan Spain for Snapshot-

ting Her.

NEWPORT, April 27.-The engage ment of Miss Edith Colford and Dudley Selden Morgan, which was announced more than two years ago, has been broken. It is stated that Miss Colford and Mr. Morgan terminated the engagement on account of the continued ill health of the young woman.

Miss Colford and Mr. Morgan have known each other almost from childhood, and it gave their friends a great deal of pleasure when the announcement of their engagement was made here, as it had not been unexpected, but

His Downfall.

"You poor man!" said the kind-heart-ed lady. "What brought you to your present condition?"

"The development of civilization," replied the mendicant. "I used to have a business that paid well."

to Leave Here May 19 for Outing.

The New York itinerary is the official one for the annual trip of the Chamber Commerce. Leaving Washington on the Northland on May 19, the tourists will proceed to Old Point Comfort, thence to Norfolk, and on to New York on May 20 by the Old Dominion line, arriving May 21. The return from New York to Washington will be by rail either May 21 or 22.

The committee today is sending out notices to this effect to all members of the Chamber. The decision to select the here, as it had not been unexpected, but had been delayed presumably by the illness of Miss Colford. t the time the announcement was made she was recuperating from a serious breakdown; but several entertainments were arranged in honor of the couple, and she pluckily attended, accompanied by a trained nurse.

The speedy recovery that had been hoped for did not come, and from time to time the wedding date, which had never been publicly announced, had to be postponed. Mr. Morgan was constant in his visits to the home of Miss Colford. A year ago he began a business career in New York.

Mr. Morgan startled society when at a dance at the Casino several seasons ago he appeared dressed as a woman, and carried through the deception. Miss Colford once rebuked the King of Spain, who was taking snapshots of her on the beach at San Sebastian.

His December was made the time the announcement was made she was recuperating of the committee, of which George H. Judd is chairman, in the rooms of the Chamber yesterday afternoon. The committee had canvassed the membership by letter, asking for expressions of choice, and as the vote for the New York trip was much in the majority, that itinerary was chosen.

The excursion will be a stag pagity, a decision also reached after deliberation by the committee. Special musical attractions are to be furnished for the trip, and copies of songs are to be printed, so that all members of the Chamber on the excursion may join in the singular triple of the committee. Special musical attractions are to be furnished for the trip, and copies of songs are to be printed, so that all members of the Chamber will be at the Hotel Martinique, where those who reservations. Special cars or a special train will be provided for the return from New York. New York trip instead of the trip to
